Making All Things New An If, however, we are willing to live a life of prayer and practice the disciplines of solitude and community, a new hunger will make itself known. This new hunger is the first sign of God's presence. When we remain attentive to this divine presence, we will be led always deeper into the kingdom. There, to our joyful surprise, we will discover that the power of our worries is weakening and all things are being made new." - -from "Making All Things New" Making All Things New: An Invitation to the Spiritual Life ... Henri Nouwen is a short, clean, clear book about how to begin finding the peace of mind to hear the voice of God. The book's epigraph, from Mark, is anchored in Jesus' words: "Do not worry."

Nouwen acknowledges that worry is so ingrained in many people's daily lives that it seems to be an integral part of positive achievement and

... "'Behold, I make all things new.'

And he said, 'Write this, for these words are trustworthy and true.'"

What's important here, I think, is that this "kingdom of heaven" has come to us here, on earth, in the course of our mortal experiences. It's not a question of us ascending somewhere else after death. Revelation 21:5 "Behold, I make all things new." | Unity The invincible purpose of God for creation and for his people will not be complete until all things are made new and the glory of the Lord fills them all. In verse 5 God says, "Behold, I make all things new." And he enforces the certainty of it in two ways. He is sitting on his throne when he says it—the throne of the universe. "He who sat upon the throne said, 'Behold I make all things new.'" And after he had said it, he added, "Write this, for these words are trustworthy and true." Behold, I Make All Things New | Desiring God Then He who sat on the throne said, "Behold, I make all things new." And He said to me, "Write, for these words are true and faithful." teacher when he felt the call to the ministry. Behold, I Make All Things New | Hymnary.org Behold I make all things new (Rev 21: 5). In the mystery of his Incarnation, God the Son comes to die. God takes all that is ugly and old and rotten in this world and draws it into his self. "See, Mother, I make all things new." | America Magazine Making All Things New - Bishop John is asking each and every one of you to become a leader. Leadership, above all, is having the determination to get up on the heights and look out to see where we are going and what is coming our way. Leadership is about recognising and accepting the gap between what is desirable and what is realistic. Diocese of Paisley | Making All Things New | Paisley,
