The Journal Of Albion Moonlight Patchen combine. Disturbing, experimental and brutal, The Journal of Albion Moonlight is a post-apocalyptic novel before such a thing was invented. Patchen doesn't require an invented fantasy apocalypse to tell this story, war is the apocalypse that ends life, morality, and rationality, War is madness. The story is nominally set during World War II but it really takes place in a mind at war. The Journal of Albion Moonlight The Journal of Albion Moonlight is a work of unmistakable genius; in all of English literature it stands alone. Albion Moonlight is the most naked figure of a man I have encountered in all literature.

Press, 1945) Kenneth Patchen The Journal of Albion Moonlight series derives its title and inspiration from a work of experimental prose written by American poet Kenneth Patchen during the summer of 1940, just preceding America's plunge into WWII. I was drawn to Patchen partly because of my own experience as a child whose parents, while marked by the war, had remained eerily silent about it; my experiences seemed to ... The Journal of Albion Moonlight Albion Moonlight is a character who refuses to be anything other than his own most difficult self, he finds his zenith and his nadir, and any truth he uncovers he ruthlessly destroys by his curious and meticulous mind.
